"Mom, what is that poo-poo on your hand?" Curiosity plays a big part in children lives, especially when they are raised in multicultural family and see things that their parents do differently. In this book curious Laxmi(Lux-me) asks her Mom about the dot on her forehead, yucky poop on her hand, the stud on her nose and all the blingy, shinny jewelry that mom has on. This story reflects very intimate and yet very informative conversation between a mother and daughter. This book gives an excellent opportunity to learn about the traditional and cultural fact behind the makeup, dress and jewelry that are worn in parts of South Asia. Curious children can write their own story about their Mom by using fill-in-the-blank lines to describe Mom's dress, jewelry and what makes Mom so special.
